I have prepared an application that retrieves information from the available API. Using the "axios" method, I download and assign appropriate values. I added a button that loads the next page of elements and increases the number of elements on the page by 5. By clicking the "More info" button, we are redirected to the page where more information is displayed. The task was to specify "age", but there was no such information in the API, I provided information about the eye color. To load movie titles, I also retrieve information using "axios". I also prepared the page in case you entered the wrong url. The application is prepared for the phone and computer. I don't upload the "node_modules" folder in the application because it takes up a lot of space. However, I add information on how to fire. Below I will also add example views.
